Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6-30-08 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The newly added limitation in line 9 of claim 1 that the first densified layer is thicker (emphasis added) than the second densified layer is not described in the specification in a way that would reasonably convey to one skilled in the art that densified layers having the same thickness would be excluded. While Applicant exemplifies embodiments wherein the first densified layer is 500 microns and the second densified layer is 150 microns or on page 8 of the specification or 1000 and 300 microns respectively on page 10 of the specification; Applicant does not provide a basis to exclude thicknesses for the first and second layer which have the same thickness of 300 microns. As such, the limitation that the first layer is thicker than the second is considered new matter.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 6-30-08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Figure 1 and Example 1 depict and describe a sintered gear wherein the first layer is thicker than the second layer. Applicant further states that the description on page 5 of the specification that it is unnecessary to deeply form the densified layer on the bottom land and thus it teaches that the second densified layer does not have to be as thick as the first. However, while Applicant has provided showings where the first layer may be thicker than the second, Applicant has not provided a teaching or evidence to exclude layers which have the same thickness such as 300 microns.

In view of the amended to claim 1 including the limitation that the first layer is thicker than the second, the prior art rejection has been withdrawn. However, it was noted that Applicant's argument that the prior art is silent as to the thickness characteristics of the first and second densified layer wherein they are provided for strength and noise reduction, respectively, is not commensurate in scope with the claims as there are no limitations drawn to strength or noise reduction.
